

Flat Page

The Tale of Flat Page

Our Champion for Literacy, Page Turner, was minding her own business and reading one of her favorite children's books at the library. Suddenly, a large book fell from the shelf above her, landing on her head and flattening her! Page was so upset and thought to herself, "How can I be a Champion for Literacy if I'm flat?" As her mind raced about how she could continue her mission of empowering kids to read, a little boy walked over and picked her up. He said, "What a cool bookmark this could be!"

The little boy took Flat Page home with him and used her as a bookmark for all of the books he read. Because he loved reading so much, Page got to go on many adventures through the stories he read.

Page Turner could now continue to be a Champion for Literacy by living inside the books she loves to read. She also got to see many places around town because the boy carried his books with him everywhere he went.

Flat Page would love to live in as many books as she can. Won't you take her home and share your favorite books and places around town with her?

Contest Instructions

1. Color and cut out Flat Page
2. Follow the Literacy Now Instagram page at @literacynowhouston
3. Post a photo of your Flat Page with a book or in a special place.
4. Use the hashtag #flatpageLN when posting your photo.
5. One photo will be randomly chosen through a drawing on April 30, 2021 to receive a $100 Visa gift card.
6. You may enter as many different photos as you wish. You MUST use the hashtag #flatpageLN to be entered into the drawing.